Pirates of Penzance is acomic opera in two acts, with music by Arthur Sullivan and libretto by W.S. Glibert. The work premiered with a single performance in Paignton, England, on December 30, 1879, and in New York City on December 31, 1879. Its London debut was on 3rd April 1880, at the Opera Comique, London.

1879. Its London debut was on 3" April 1880, at the Opera Comique, London. Synopsis - The story concerns Frederic who, having completed his 21st year, is released from his apprenticeship to a band of tender-hearted pirates. He meets Mabel, the daughter of Major-General Stanley, and the two young people flat instantly in love. Frederic finds out however, that he was born in a Leap Year, the 28th of February and so, technically, he only has a birthday every four years, each Leap Year or February 29th. His apprenticeship indentures state that he remains apprenticed to the pirates until his 21st birthday, and so he must serve for another 63 years. Bound by his own sense of duty, Frederic's only solace is that Mabel agrees to wait for him faithfully.

There are also other sub-plots at work: the Pirates, upon seeing Mabel's sisters at play, decide to capture them, so that they may then take them to the nearest ciergyman and many them on the spot. The Major General, the girls 'father, saves them from this fate by claiming he is an orphan, and, as the Pirates make it a practice of never 'mistreating' an orphan, they are compelled to let him go.

Ruth, Frederic's nursery maid, wants to marry Frederic but he rebuffs her after seeing the younger, more beautiful Mabel. So she teams up with the Pirates when they attack Major-General Stanley's home, after learning Major-General Stanley was never an orphan. The constabulary, led by their bumbling Police Sergeant, try to defend the caste but are easily overcome. The Pirates are persuaded to yield to the Police Sergeant in Queen Victoria's name when Ruth reveals that the Pirates are all "noblemen who have gone wrong." All is forgiven and Frederic and the Pirates can marry the daughters!
